

Nomadix Privacy Policy

Introduction

Nomadix respects your privacy. Any personal information you provide to us is used for the sole purpose of improving service. The following privacy policy discloses the information gathering and dissemination practices for the Nomadix website, www.nomadix.com, and demonstrates our firm commitment to protecting your privacy online.

This privacy policy applies to all information Nomadix maintains electronically—whether you provide the information through our website or other means—and to any personal information obtained from your use of the Nomadix website. Please note that the policy does not apply to information you may provide to third parties, such as other sites linked to the Nomadix website. You should contact third parties directly to determine their respective privacy policies.

For purposes of convenience, this policy may make references to Nomadix using the terms "Nomadix," "we," "our" and "its." The use of these terms is not intended to be an accurate description of ownership, operation or corporate/legal relationships.

What information does Nomadix collect?

Nomadix collects and maintains a variety of information obtained both through our website and through your submission of paper forms. Examples of the types of information collected include:

- Your company name
- Your location
- Your business type
- Your industry
- Your contact information, including your first and last name, email address, and phone number

Depending on your individual use of the Nomadix website, we may also collect your Nomadix Service Engine's (NSE's) network Internet Protocol (IP) address, and information about your gateway—including NSE ID, serial number, administrator's user name and password, installed firmware version, and configuration settings. In addition, Nomadix may store and analyze log files from user sessions, and use cookies to log you in to certain areas of our website.

How is this information used?

The use of your information helps Nomadix provide more effective and efficient services, such as the ability edit and update your information via the Nomadix website. Other examples of how your information may be used include:

Contacting you – Nomadix uses your contact information, such as your first and last name, email address, and phone number, to communicate with you over the course of your customer relationship.

Using your IP address – IP addresses are numbers that are automatically assigned to your NSE’s network computer and, if associated with other individually identifiable information, could be considered personal information. We use your IP address to upgrade your NSE’s firmware.

Using NSE administrator’s user name and password – Nomadix uses this information to log in to your NSE and upgrade your firmware. We recommend that you change your password after the upgrade is complete.

With whom is information shared?

Nomadix does not sell or share your information with third parties. However, we may share your information for the following purposes:

Business transfers

- Customer support efforts that necessitate sharing information with our parent company, MagiNet

Do I have access to the information I provide?

You can view and update your information prior to sending firmware upgrade requests to Nomadix.

Measures

While use of the Nomadix website does not involve collection of your confidential information, we cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to Nomadix.

Disclaimer Regarding Privacy Policy and Linked Site Content

The Nomadix website may provide you with links to other websites. We are not responsible for those sites, and cannot control the use of any information you submit to them. We also cannot control the content offered on those sites or their affiliated links. Please contact any third-party websites directly to determine their privacy policies.

Use of Information from Third Parties

We do not use any information about you that has been provided to us by third parties.

Website is not Intended for Children

Nomadix does not knowingly solicit data from children, and we do not intentionally market to children.

Changes to Policies and Practices

Nomadix reserves the right to periodically change its privacy policies and practices, without providing individual notification, by updating this privacy policy notice.

Our privacy policy was last updated Dec. 12, 2006. Please note that it is your responsibility to monitor any such updates, and that your continued use of the Nomadix website constitutes your full acceptance of the revised terms and conditions.
